NNIRR’s IMMIGRATION QUIZ

A Note to Facilitators

The Immigration Quiz was developed as an accessible and non-threatening tool to introduce key immigration issues and background information. It can be used in a variety of settings – a house meeting, in classrooms, in faith-based gatherings, etc. This is not a competitive “test” – we want people to share their knowledge and their questions.

Even if you have never “led” such a discussion, you can do this!!

Here are a few pointers:

• The quiz/answer session can comfortably be done in about an hour. Your “audience” can be given 10-15 minutes to do the quiz.

• Make enough copies of both the quiz (1 page) and the answer sheets (4 pages) for your participants – people usually want the answer sheets to take with them. Only hand out the quiz initially; pass out the answer sheets at the end of the session.

• As much as possible – make the experience interactive: encourage people to talk to one another as they go through the quiz. You can even make up small groups so that people collaborate on their responses.

• After people have “completed” the quiz, go through the answers. You might ask, how many of you answered “a”; who answered “b”, etc. You can ask for volunteers to share their answers. Or you can see which small group got the right answer and pass out a “reward” (Hershey’s chocolate kisses are often a welcome prize).

• If you are comfortable with the topic, you can share additional information or commentary as you go along through the answers or invite people to share any more information they have, as well as any remaining questions.

Please keep in mind some of the background information for facilitators that we have posted on NNIRR’s website.

1. a. 14%

Although the US is home to about one-fifth of the world’s immigrants (46.6 million), it is not a large proportion of the American population. This percentage is considerably lower than that in countries, such as the United Arab Emirates, Qatar and Kuwait, where ¾ or more of the population are international migrants. In Australia, 28% of the population is foreign born; in Canada, 22%. In 1890, the foreign born proportion in the U.S. was 14.8%.

2. b. 5%

Although only 5% of the civilian workforce, unauthorized immigrants are overrepresented in the agricultural (26%) and construction (15%) sectors. However, in all industries and occupations, they are outnumbered by U.S.-born workers.

3. b. 239

These remains are presumably those of migrants attempting to cross into the U.S. However, those numbers fail to include an unknown number of remains that were never found. This situation, according to border human rights groups, is evidence of the devastating impact of U.S. “deterrence” policies that continue to “funnel” migrants to cross in more dangerous border areas and in the hands of smugglers, or coyotes.
4. c. 49%

70,000 migrants were prosecuted for unlawful entry and re-entry. Non-citizens now comprise 23% of the US prison population, although they represent only 7% of the general U.S. population. Today, 50% of those entering federal prisons are immigrants. Despite the enormous costs (around $7 billion since 2005) and the wasted lives, research has not found incarceration to be an effective deterrent to migration, which is more strongly influenced by family ties and economic circumstances.

The US has a long history of criminalizing immigrants, and President Trump continued this legacy. One of the executive orders President Trump signed in January 2017, expands the “priority” enforcement targets by including those who have been convicted of a criminal offense, those who have been charged but not convicted, as well as anyone who “may have” committed an act that could be chargeable as a criminal offense. In effect, he expanded the notion of “criminality” to include all undocumented immigrants.

5. b. 85,000

In 2017, Trump plans to accept 50,000 refugees, less than half of the 110,000 admissions that had been designated by the Obama Administration.

- In 2015, Germany (which is 26 times smaller than the US and 4 times less populated) received 1 million refugees.
- Lebanon (which is 914 times smaller than the US and 54 times less populated) received 1.6 million refugees in 2014.
- In 2015, 39% of the world refugees were hosted in the Middle East and North Africa, 29% in Africa and only 12% in the Americas.

6. a. Custom and Border Protection (CBP)

Here is the budget of each agency (2014 data):

<td>Total = $15.7 billion</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The government spends more on immigration enforcement than on all other federal law enforcement agencies combined (FBI, Drug Enforcement Administration, Secret Service, U.S. Marshals Service and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives).
While the Department of Homeland Security's annual budget -- $41 billion in Fiscal Year 2016 -- covers a wide range of costs, the ever-expanding budget for immigration enforcement over the last 15 years is most troubling. Border security has been a boon for global military and defense contractors, who have eyed the U.S.-Mexico border as a lucrative business source.
The cost of Trump's border wall alone is estimated to exceed $25 billion.

7. b. 3.5%

There are approximately 11 million undocumented immigrants in the United States, out of a general population of over 320 million.

8. False

Undocumented immigrants do not qualify for welfare, food stamps, Medicaid, and most other public benefits. Most of these programs require proof of legal immigration status and under the 1996 welfare law, even legal immigrants cannot receive these benefits until they have been in the United States for more than five years.

According to the Social Security Administration, undocumented immigrants are paying an estimated $15 billion a year into Social Security with no possibility of ever collecting benefits.

9. c. 2.5 million

From 2009 to 2016, Obama’s government deported more than 2.5 million people—up 23% from the George W. Bush years.

10. b. 20.7%

However, some states have succeeded in passing laws mandating English as the “official” language. The “English Only” law marginalizes and demeans non-native English speakers and decreases the likelihood of creating and maintaining multilingual programs, and may be used to prohibit the translation of official documents and services. These laws may also give the false impression that languages other than English are unimportant to learn, even though many countries promote multilingualism.
